A Good Sense of Health

The iF product design award is given annually by the International Forum Design GmbH (iF), which was launched in 2001 as the operative business arm of the design promotion company iF Industrie Forum Design Hannover e.V.

Market observation, close contact with the experts, early recognition of new trends and their reception are the essential strengths of the iF design awards. With a total of 16 categories, the international competition is geared to entrepreneurs, designers and manufacturers.

In addition, the iF gold award is given to a limited number of particularly meritorious iF product design winners.

In partnership with IF International Forum Design the universal design GmbH launched the universal design award in 2008 as a new communication tool. Its target groups consist of the business, research and political community.

All entries submitted are eligible for

- adjudication by a jury of experts for the "universal design award"
- consideration by a consumer survey consisting of 100 test persons for the "universal design consumer favorite"

The competition not only sensitizes the public to the topic of universal design, but invites it to actively participate in deciding which entries promise the greatest possible benefit for their target audience.

reddot design award

The reddot design award is an international product design prize awarded by the Design Zentrum Nordrhein Westfalen in Essen, Germany.

The aim of the prize is to honor outstanding design quality and trendsetting. Since 1955, designers and producers can apply for the prizes. Winning products are presented in the reddot design museum on the premises of the Zollverein World Cultural Heritage site in Essen.
